[In mainpiece the playbill retains Kemble as The Stranger, but “The Publick are most respectfully informed that Kemble being suddenly taken so ill as to preclude the possibility of his having the honour of appearing before them this Evening, to prevent disappointment of the Play, Raymond at a very short notice has undertaken the Part of The Stranger, and hopes to experience their usual indulgence” (printed slip attached to Kemble playbill).] Receipts: £356 12s. HAY
- COMMENT. By Permission of the Lord Chamberlain. Benefit for Lady Perrott and her Orphan Family. Lady Perrott trusts that this will be her last appeal to public commiseration, hoping to obtain justice from her claims in Jamaica. When it is considered that these agonizing efforts to preserve five helpless children are made by a woman born to all the delicate indulgences attending on rank and fashion, every species of apology would be deemed an insult to the most amiable attribute of human nature—a sympathising heart. Tickets to be had of Lady Perrott, No. 28, Spring-street, Portman-square.

CG
- COMMENT. Afterpiece: Not acted these 5 years [not acted since 29 May 1794]. “The reception [the afterpiece] experienced will, we trust, convince [the manager] of the expediency of re-consigning it to the gulph of merited oblivion” (Dramatic Censor, I, 201). Receipts: £263 10s. (261/2; 2/8).

After being resumed for a night or two by the original representative [27, 31 Jan., 1 Feb.], it again devolved upon the latter gentleman [28 Jan., 5 Feb.]” (Dramatic Censor, I, 203). - COMMENT. By Command of Their Majesties. “Towards the conclusion [of afterpiece, Miss De Camp] fell with Kelly, while in the act of running down the stage; her head striking with so much violence against the boards that she fainted away [having received a severe contusion that necessitated surgery]” (Morning Herald, 8 Feb.). “It is to be hoped that the events of Thursday Evening will prove a wholesome warning to the servants of the Theatre, and enforce the necessity of sweeping the stage with greater care. The disaster, it seems, originated in the peel of an orange, which the Copper Captain [in mainpiece] throws away” (Dramatic Censor, I, 210). Receipts: £591 19s. (525/13/6; 63/5/6; 3/0/0).
